AUTOISTS IN COURT

For Violating Tewksbury's Speed Limit Law

John B. Pilling and Charles C. Hedric of Lowell and Wilbur Hadlock of Manchester, N. H., Nailed in South Tewksbury

John B. Pilling, senior member of the firm of Pilling Brothers, shoe manufacturers, Charles C. Hedric, a mechanical engineer employed by the Locks & Canals company, and Wilbur Hadlock, a wealthy resident of Manchester, N. H., were summoned last night to the police court this morning for violating the speed law in relation to automobiles in South Tewksbury, yesterday.

Chief of Police Manley of Tewksbury appeared as the complainant and was represented by Town Comis J. Nathan D. Pratt, who asked for a continuance until Tuesday. Ans. 14. None of the defendants were in court having been previously notified that a continuance would be asked.

Chief Manley stated that the three autoists, each in a car of his own, went through South Tewksbury at a rate of about 25 or 30 miles an hour, the town streets having a curve marked off for the purpose of trapping any autoists who violated the law. Since the tragic death of "Billie" Button, in Tewksbury, as the result of being struck by an auto, the town authorities have been right after the autoists. Up to today, however, Billie has been the only town to bring in any victims.

WAS ALIVE

GIRL WAS ABOUT TO BE BURIED.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 4.—But for the precautions of the leading physicians, Miss Maudie Wallace, daughter of J. S. Wallace of Fox Hill, Elizabeth City County, would probably have been buried alive. Miss Wallace was taken sick two weeks ago and gradually became worse. She was attended by Dr. Howe of Hampton. During the absence of the physician the young woman grew worse, and to all appearances passed away. There was no sign whatever of respiration or pulse. The parents of the girl, believing her dead, made arrangements for the funeral, going so far as to name the undertaker and to have her laid out in a handsome casket.

The undertaker, having occasion to go to Old Point previous to the interment, met Dr. Howe on the road. He informed Dr. Howe of the girl's death, and asked him to make out the death certificate, and the latter drove to Fox Hill for the purpose. Arriving at the home, he found the conditions as had been described to him, and also discovered that the young woman was still living and warm, and that there was evidence of respiration. He immediately announced that the girl was still alive. Since then Miss Wallace has lain in a comatose condition. The physicians have been utterly unable to arouse her or to produce any other evidence of life.

BOSTON COPPER MARKET.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The local copper market was generally weak in the early trading session, with trading confined to narrow limits. Buteau Condition was an early feature, declining to 22, off 1. The weakness, however, was not general, as the general list, the preferred selling at 30, and the common at 32, off 1, in each instance.

The market closed lower. American Pneumatic was off 1/2 to 30 1/2; Natick Butte off 1/2 to 30 1/2; Copper Butte off 1/2 to 31, and Utah off 1/2 to 32 1/2. The general market was also lower and inactive.

The players in the tournament have had to contend against extremely bad weather and uncertain courts, yet there have been but few defaults, while the playing has been very fast and at times exciting.

Wild Fight for Life When Sirio Went Down

Terrible Disaster on the Spanish Coast — Women and Children Crushed in Battle for Boats — Captain of Emigrant Ship Committed Suicide — 500 Survivors are in Utter Distress

CARTAGENA, Spain, Aug. 6. — A terrible marine disaster occurred Saturday evening off cape Palos, when the Balao, steamship Sirio, from Genoa for La Coruña, Cadiz, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, with about 800 persons on board, was wrecked off Horañal Island and 500 emigrants, most of them Balans and Spaniards, were drowned.

The captain of the steamer committed suicide after attributing the disaster to his own negligence.

The Bishop of San Pedro, Brazil, was also lost, and it is reported that another Bishop is among the missing.

The remainder of the passengers and the officers and crew got away in the ship's boats or were rescued by means of boats from the shore.

A number of fishermen who made attempts at rescue were drowned.

The Sirio struck a rocky reef known as Balos Hormigas and sank soon after two and a half miles to the eastward of cape Palos. The Sirio was owned by the Navegacion Italiana of Genoa.

Before he committed suicide he captain declared the steamer had 645 passengers on board and that her crew numbered 127 men. The Sirio had 576 passengers when leaving Genoa, but additional Spanish passengers were taken on board at Barcelona, where the vessel touched a few hours before the disaster.

The accident occurred at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The steamer was threading a difficult passage through the Hormigas group where the Balos Hormigas reef is a continual menace to navigation.

The vessel began to settle rapidly. Immediately she had struck and a terrible scene of confusion and panic ensued on board. The fishermen along the coast sought to render every assistance in their power and sent out boats which brought many survivors ashore. Most of the officers and crew of the Sirio are among the saved.

The survivors have gone into camp on the main square of the town of cape Palos. Horrifying scenes are enacted as the stricken families anxiously seek beloved members among the rescued. A mother who lost her three children went insane. The doctor of the Sirio gave up his wife and child as lost, but they were finally brought in by one of the rescuing boats. One of the boats sent out by the fishermen brought in 24 passengers.

The condition of the survivors is most deplorable. They have lost everything and are without money, food or clothing. The maritime authorities at Cartagena have despatched a tug to the scene, carrying relief supplies. The buildings of a church and the posthouse are being used as temporary quarters for survivors. The latest reports from the cape say that three boats have just brought in a number of rescued.

An additional sadness is added to the catastrophe owing to the fact that a number of fishermen who were conducting rescue operations were drowned in consequence of the overturning of a boat.

SHIPPIERS ACT.

A fleet of trawlers providentially happened to be only about 100 yards away when the Sirio struck. Notwithstanding the great danger, the skippers of these boats came at once to the rescue.

The survivors of the Sirio unite in praising the conduct of the captain of the trawlers, John Miguel and Vicente Llano. The former steamed close to the site of the sinking ship and took off 300 persons. The crew of this trawler endeavored to sheer off, fearing that their boat would be sunk, whereupon the captain drew his revolver, leveled it at his men and shouted:

"As long as it is possible to take off another passenger we will not move."

The deck of the John Miguel became so crowded with the terror-stricken survivors of the Sirio that the skipper was obliged, in order to prevent his boat from capsizing, to force them down into the hold at the point of his revolver.

LOWELL, MASS. MONDAY AUGUST 6, 1906

NIGHT EDITION AUTOISTS IN COURT LODGED IN PRISON

For Violating Tewksbury's Speed Limit Law

John B. Pilling and Charles C. Hedric of Lowell and Wilbur Hadlock of Manchester, N. H., Nailed in South Tewksbury

John B. Pilling, senior member of the firm of Pilling Brothers, shoe manufacturers; Charles C. Hedric, an machinist engineer employed by the Locks & Canals company, and Wilbur Hadlock, a wealthy resident of Manchester, N. H., were summoned into police court this morning for violating the speed law in relation to automobiles in South Tewksbury, yesterday. Chief of Police Manley of Tewksbury appeared as the complainant and was represented by Town Couns. F. N. and D. Pratt, who asked for a continuance until Tuesday, Aug. 7. None of the defendants were in court.

leaving them previously notified that a Commissioner would be asked.

Chief Manley stated that the three autoists, each in a car of his own, went through South Tewksbury at a rate of about 28 or 30 miles an hour, the town streets having a course marked out for the purpose of trapping any autoists who violated the law. Since the tragic death of "Billy" Burton, in Tewksbury, as the result of being struck by an auto, the town authorities have been right after the autoists. Up to today, however, Hitterha has been the only town to bring in any victims.

The local authorities are in doubt as to what to do with "Sarah Wilson," the woman of mystery, now at the Lowell hospital, who has been positively identified as Miss Susan Norris of Cambridge.

Yesterday, Mr. Henry Norris, another brother, called at the city farm and positively identified her as his sister, but Miss Norris simply shook the brother's hand and remarked: "I don't recall ever having seen you before."

Sup. Court is not quite ready to send Miss Norris away just yet, although her relatives are willing to take her. She does not recognize them, and does not seem to welcome the change.

Dr. Prince of Boston, the eminent hepatologist, has decided to visit her, and is expected in a day or two.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. Investigation of methods of the Standard oil co. by the United States government began to-day. Several weeks ago was commenced here today. A special grand jury called to report before Judge Belcher, is to consider relevant charges and secret railroad agreements by which it has been declared the Standard oil co. has been forcing competitors out of the market. A number of railroads entering Chicago may be involved. An inquiry will be directed into what is known as the "Grand Junction

It had never accepted the speed limit, in regard to gauging of public parks and places, and to the enforcement had been issued and they had not been arrested. In accordance with the law governing gauging. When the point was raised, however, Pilling saw the signatures of R. and had the complaint withdrawn.

George Anderson of Billerica Bound Over

Big Drunk List Quickly Disposed of — No Law Against Crap Shooting Except on Sunday

George Anderson, the story of whose case, first appeared in another column, pleaded guilty of larceny and was held in $400 for the grand jury in police court today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A sheriff's posse very nearly met out Lynch law to Anton Corlelli near Vineland, N. J., yesterday. Corlelli had fled to the swamps behind Vineland, after killing in cold blood Nicholas Berti, after taking the drunken Corlelli away from a birthday party was shot in the back by his man. He was trying to save from trouble. The two men had been friends for years, and when the neighbors learned that the only provocation for the crime was Berti's effort to get Corlelli home from the party upon which he had intruded, one hundred quickly volunteered to help Deputy Sheriff Spenser search for the murderer.

It is said the farmers were regularly sworn in as a sheriff's posse, but when with Spenser at their head, they came upon Corlelli hiding in the swamp, they forgot everything but vengeance, and rushed upon the murderer, and Spenser got between the murderer and the mob and fought for his prisoner. He was roughly handled, but succeeded in winning one or two other heads to his cause, and the mob finally controlled itself and permitted him to take his man to jail.

Corlelli, thoroughly sobered, and filled with remorse for his crime, begged the jailors to let him commit suicide. Berti was sixty years old and leaves four children.

EDWARD S. MILLER, not the get-rich-quick individual but a poor parole man from the state farm, was held until tomorrow when he will be sent back.

John S. Sheehy was in for the fourth time within a year and Lieut. Edmundson informed the court that it was his fifth time since 1881. He was just out of the state farm at that. But John was there with the eloquent and fervent promises and he was the court over and received a suspended sentence to the state farm.

Albert Twerk was only charged with assault and battery, but it is alleged he committed the assault on a fellow-citizen named John Savage with a knife. Savage hopped up before the court with a cut on his forehead. In which 10 stitches could be counted with

EIGHT HOUR LAW

Does Not Apply to U. S. Vessels

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. The attorney general in an opinion addressed to the secretary of the navy and made public today holds that the so-called eight-hour law does not apply to vessels under construction for the navy by contract with builders at private establishments. The attorney general calls attention to the case of Clarkson vs. Shearer, 10 U. S. 260, wherein the supreme court held that the title of a naval vessel under construction does not rest in the government until all the conditions and covenants of the contractor have been fulfilled.

The opinion was prepared and signed by Solicitor General Hart and was approved by Attorney General Moody. A similar opinion has been given the secretary of war to the effect that the eight-hour law does not apply to contractors furnishing the quartermaster's department with supplies.

It was reported today that Postmaster Duff had been President Crapo on behalf of the strike to hold a round-table conference with either the postmaster or the strike leaders.

From my standpoint, I know only one take to take and that position I did take, obedient to my oath of office. The mayor of a city is not the mayor of a corporation nor of a nation, nor he is justified in being controlled by his sympathy. There can be only one thing for him to do, and that one thing duty.

Among the first things to consider in this unfortunate affair are the unjust criticism being made by parties whose only desire is to pull some one down in order that they may rise. So these people commenced to say, "Why didn't the mayor keep the strike breakers out of town?" While the man on the other side asked,

"Why didn't the mayor keep the strike leaders out of town?" To both of these parties there can be but one answer. The mayor had no power to keep them out. They both have the right to command and it is no business of the mayor's when they come and when they go. While I have no say in my side that I might cite to illustrate my such action, I did not attempt to keep Morris Fitzgerald and 300 men on the strike leaders out of the city.

In this affair I have tried to do what my duty as mayor called me to do.

Certainly people who are trying to make political capital of the whole affair do not desire to know my position, nor would it be beneficial to their plan.

I would be only too pleased to have those who represent the labor unions do the same for me.

In know my position, it would not be beneficial to their plan.

I would be only too pleased to have those who represent the labor unions do the same for me.

Let them take care of their own side.

— LEAP TO DEATH —

WITNESSED BY A SCORE OF PERSONS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—In sight of scores of gaudily dressed on the White Star liner Cetie, which arrived yesterday, John Erwin, drummer on the ship, whose body had been thought to have been affected, threw himself into the sea from the promenade deck Saturday morning. Erwin's body never rose to the surface, and it is thought to have either been sucked under by the propellers or pinned upon by sharks.

James Grattie Matchett, ex-champion swimmer of England, who is a stoker on the ship, prepared to dive overboard to rescue Erwin had the body appeared.

A buoy was thrown out, and later a lifeboat manned and lowered, while the ship circled about.

This was Erwin's first trip on the Cetie, and from the beginning of the voyage he appeared morose and melancholy. He leaves a widow and two children in Birkenhead, England. The passengers made up a purse of $75, which will be presented to Erwin's widow.

LATEST STRANGE ROMANCE

Man Gives His Heart to Repair Murder

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 6.—The marriage of William P. Royce and Miss Loretta Patton Hendrickson, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Patton, whom Royce married ten years ago, has left among the friends of the couple an unanswered question, whether Royce was arrested by true whole-hearted love, or whether he was moved by a sense of justice, or whether he wished to devote his life to the girl whom he had made an orphan at the age of seven.

With the girl's adopted brother and a few intimate friends the young people went in the month past to the home of the Rev. G. A. Moore, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Le Mars, where they were married in a happy fashion, though there were no members of the clergy.

To observers the match is one of Cupid's best. The hearts of the young people, so strangely brought together, appear woven into loves stronger than the Royce's ever remissive for the unthinking crime, and it is known that he is glad to make some compensation, although in so doing he is getting only happiness. The past is forgotten between the wife and husband.

Royce is employed as one of the foremen of the Sioux City Gas and Electric company, having learned the trade of stationery engineer in the penitentiary, and he is showing a steadiness of purpose which promises him success.

Royce was a boy of seventeen when, in desperation by his failure to win the love of the young widow so many admired, he forced his way into the home of Mrs. Patton, implored her to go with him, and being rejected, shot her dead. It is believed he intended to end his own life, but the shot of his bleeding prostitute victim rebounded and spared him. He did not make his studied effort to escape that was not arrested.

His mother and sister were dependent upon him, and Mrs. Patton, it was shown at the trial, had given him no encouragement. Royce was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to seven years in prison.

From the first day of his confinement Royce set about to do something for himself. He was placed in the machine shop, and by close application and having more than ordinary talent for the work he became an expert. He was paroled after ten years.

Royce admits his first impulse, as a free man, was to make a fortune, as far as possible, to the end that he might be proudest of a mother. As soon as he had saved some money he started out to find the girl. He learned of her adoption into the family of Henry Hendrickson, a prosperous farmer near Clinton. On Sunday he drove out there and with some hesitation intrusted himself.

The hearted Henry Hendrickson sympathized with young Royce as he had with the child he had adopted. He took Royce into the house and introduced him. When Royce left he invited him to come again, and gradually the friendship grew. Both viewed with dismay the condition of their marriage was sure to cause. But their love was strong enough to withstand the uncertainty, and since their marriage the bride has been living in her home in Clinton, twelve miles from Sioux City, while Royce is hard at work here preparing a home.

A GIRL CAPTIVE BROKEN SHAFT

Owes Her Arrest to An Accident to the Her Dress

Steamer Puritan

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Sadie Ellsworth, a pretty girl who said she had done considerable travelling, was the best dressed prisoner in the central police court yesterday. The girl admitted that she owed much of her success in her peculiar line of work to her appearance.

Miss Ellsworth was charged with stealing jewelry and clothing. She came to this city Tuesday and stopped at three different places inside of 24 hours. She had good reasons.

Miss Ellsworth's first stop was at 1514 Arch street. There, it is said, she took a watch belonging to Miss Hurley Dockham, a boarder. She disappeared. Then she engaged a room at No. 1617 Arch street.

Afterward, according to the police, Miss Ellsworth went to a department store and chose a handsome gown and waist worth $60. These were sent home C. O. D. When the clothing arrived she gave the boy who brought it an envelope supposed to contain $60. The envelope contained a piece of green paper.

When the police arrived at No. 1617 Arch street Miss Ellsworth had again disappeared. So had the clothing. She was finally found at No. 2011 Arch street by Detective Alexander.

With a picturesque pose, the prisoner looked defiantly at the detectives, as the tale of her wanderings was unfolded to Magistrate Kochersperger. He held her for court.

The young woman said that her parents were dead. She came from St. Louis.

THE REGATTA

PINE LIST OF RACES ON PROGRAM AT COASTER.

GWADIS, Isle of Wight, Aug. 6.—The Coaster regatta opened today under brilliant sunbeams with as usual a program of races under the Bureau of the Royal London Yacht club. The roads were crowded with yachts of various kinds, and with worshippers of the kings of England and Spain, who, with their consorts, watched the races from their respective royal yachts.

The weather was clear, but the wind was very high.

In the races for 50-footers the starters were George W. Watson's American built yacht Neptune, Myles B. Kennedy's cutter, White Heather, Sir James Pender's cutter, Kestrel, and R. W. Young's cutter, Syria.

The police have been endeavoring to find McCusker since last April, when he disappeared while the jury was deliberating upon his case, after his trial for the crime offence for which he was arrested yesterday. McCusker, it is said, was "sped off" that the verdict of the jury would be unfavorable, and when the sealed verdict in the case was returned, on April 20, McCusker was not in court to answer and a default warrant was issued for his arrest. He was out under $1000 bonds, and it is said his experts forfeited that amount.

McCusker secured the amount named in the warrant in a business deal which Watson claimed was presented to him in glowing terms by McCusker, but with a failed to turn out as profitably as was expected. McCusker was in the metal polish business, and induced Watson to take a half-interest in it, giving for the same $90.

This transaction occurred on Feb. 17,

1905, and it took Watson but a short time to find out that the proposition was not what he had expected and to secure a warrant for the arrest of McCusker.

Watson was then living at 72 Bedford street, this city, but he had since moved to Lowell.

McCusker was a few years ago the champion professional swimmer of America and came to prominence by swimming Percy Nott, the Australian swimmer, a number of match races, and also competing with Nott, the English champion. He has competed in swimming races abroad and holds a number of records for swimming at the present time.

BUTLER AMES PRESENTS FLAG TO BILLERICA ODD FELLOWS.

Congressman Butler Ames, although he has been in Colorado for the past month, is nevertheless keeping his memory green in the hearts of his countrymen, for Saturday he presented to the Odd Fellows (M. I. O.) of Billerica, a beautiful mammoth silk American flag. The flag was unfurled Saturday afternoon at the camp of the Merrimack Valley Lodge, L. O. O. F., M. I. O., on the banks of the Concord river.

The bugler played the salute to the flag and a salute was fired from the cannon. A large gathering of members and their friends were at hand to cheer.

At 3 o'clock, Joseph A. Legato, representing Cong. Ames, unfurled the flag and addressed the president of the camping club. He presented the colors on behalf of Cong. Ames in a brief but eloquent speech.

President George Ingalls, in a few well chosen words, thanked the congressman and accepted the flag in behalf of the club. Addresses were also made by Peter A. MacKenzie, and others.

Wild Fight for Life When Sirio Went Down

Terrible Disaster on the Spanish Coast — Women and Children Crushed in Battle for Boats — Captain of Emigrant Ship Committed Suicide — 500 Survivors are in Utter Distress

CARTAGENA, Spain, Aug. 6. — A terrible marine disaster occurred Saturday evening off cape Palos, when the Italian steamer Sirio, from Genoa for Barcelona, Cadiz, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, with about 800 persons on board, was wrecked off Hormigas Island and 700 immigrants, most of them Italians and Spaniards, were drowned.

The captain of the steamer committed suicide after attributing the disaster to his own imprudence.

The bishop of San Pedro, Brazil, was also testif. It is reported that another bishop is among the missing.

The remainder of the passengers and the officers and crew got away in the ship's boats or were rescued by means of boats from the shore.

A number of fishermen who made attempts at rescue were drowned.

The Sirio struck a rocky islet known as Rapa Hormigas and sank soon after two and a half miles to the eastward of cape Palos. The Sirio was owned by the Navigazione Italiana of Genoa.

Before he committed suicide the captain declared the steamer had 835 passengers on board and that her crew numbered 127 men. The ship had 570 passengers when leaving Genoa, but additional Spanish passengers were taken on board at Barcelona, where the vessel touched a few hours before the disaster.

The accident occurred at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The steamer was threading a difficult passage through the Hormigas group where the Bajos Hormigas islet is a continual menace to navigation.

The vessel began to settle rapidly. Immediately she had struck and a terrible scene of confusion and panic ensued on board. The fishermen along the coast sought to render every assistance in their power and sent out boats which brought many survivors ashore. Most of the officers and crew of the Sirio are among the saved.

The survivors have gone into camp on the main square of the town of cape Palos. Horroring scenes are enacted as the stricken families anxiously seek beloved members among the rescued. A mother who lost her three children went insane. The doctor of the Sirio gave up his wife and child as lost, but they were finally brought to by one of the rescuing boats. One of the boats sent out by the fishermen brought in 24 passengers.

The condition of the survivors is most deplorable. They have lost everything, and are without money, food or clothing. The maritime authorities at Cartagena have despatched a tug to the scene, carrying relief supplies. The buildings of a canteen and the porches are being used as temporary quarters for survivors. The latest reports from the cape say that three boats have just brought in a number of rescued.

An additional radius is added to the catastrophe owing to the fact that a number of fishermen who were conducting rescue operations were drowned in consequence of the overturning of a boat.

SKIPPERS ACT.

A fleet of trawlers accidentally happened to be only about 100 yards away when the Sirio struck. Notwithstanding the great danger, the skippers of these boats came at once to the rescue.

The survivors of the Sirio units in pushing the conduct of the captain of the trawlers, John Miguel and Vicente Llarena. The former steamed close to the side of the sinking ship and took off 300 persons. The crew of this trawler endeavored to shore off, fearing that their boat would be sunk, whereupon the captain drew his revolver, leveled it at his men and shouted.

"As long as it is possible to take another passenger, we will not move."

The deck of the Italian Miguel became so crowded with the terror-stricken survivors of the Sirio that the skipper was obliged, in order to prevent his boat from capsizing, to force them down into the hold at the point of his revolver.

The Vicente Llarena saved 200 persons and an old fisherman sailing a fishing vessel 42. A roll call taken on shore shows that 355 persons from the Sirio are missing, but it is believed that a few were taken on board French and German steamers which continued their voyage after the Sirio sank.

It is said that a large number of the first and second cabin passengers were drowned, their bodies being the first to go under water.

Many heartrending incidents are related. A group of six children clung together to the shrouds of the Sirio while their mothers were taken off by one of the trawlers. The Sirio sank before the children could be rescued. The mothers, frantic with despair, watched their children as they were engulfed. The children uttered piercing shrieks as they were drawn under the waves, and it was with difficulty that the women were restrained from jumping into the sea.

The Austrian consul at Rio de Janeiro hurried into the sea wearing a life belt. He then noticed a woman and child near him on the point of going down. He gave up his belt to them and tried to save them. He was almost completely exhausted when descended by a fishing vessel. Among the drowned was the pilot of the Benetton liner, with headquarters in London. All the steerage went down with the ship. They were unable to reach the deck in time to save themselves.

Among the survivors, at cape Palos are many mothers who weep and wring their hands for lost children, while there are also a number of children who are unable to find their parents. These have been admitted to the city foundling asylum.

A large number of the surviving emigrants have declared they will go no further. They desire to return home and insist on traveling by land.

SCENES OF BRUTAL PANIC.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Telegraph describes the Sirio disaster as one of the worst on record. The Italian emigrants, with knives in their hands and without regard for the women or children, fought with the greatest brutality for the possession of life boats and boats. Many were killed or wounded, including several members of the crew who were attacked by emigrants.

When the captain saw the vessel was lost and that the emigrants had captured the boats, he committed suicide by shooting with a revolver. The other officers then lost their heads and there was nobody to direct the work of rescue.

Eye-witnesses give awful pictures of the brutal panic on board. For half an hour the emigrants were masters of the situation. They completely overcame the crew by sheer force of numbers, in spite of the effort of the officers, who tried to save the women and children first.

One report states that a group of emigrants approached one of the ship's boats, which was already full and about to be launched, and dislodged the people, killing several with their knives. Just as they were about to occupy the boat themselves, another body of armed emigrants came up and

HEART FAILURE

Caused Death of Mrs.

Tom Lawson

THE END CAME SUDDENLY

She Was Expected to Recover

SCITUATE, Aug. 6. — Dreamwood, a former summer home of Thomas W. Lawson, is shrouded in the deepest gloom over the sudden death of Mrs. Lawson, about noon yesterday.

Mr. Lawson, who had been ill alternately for a month with an affection of the heart, had for two weeks past been improving to such an extent that his complete recovery was confidently looked for, and the news of his death came with a severe shock to the townpeople, the huge colony of summer residents here and more especially to the 10 or more employees at Dreamwood.

Yesterday morning it was reported a fierce fight for possession of the lifeboat followed.

Many of the survivors brought ashore were seriously wounded, and a number had sustained fractured ribs. Some of the injured died.

It is reported that the celebrated Spanish singer, Lola Mñanes, was among the drowned.

JUDGE BONNEY

OF MAINE SUPERIOR COURT IS DEAD.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 6.—Hon. Percival Bonney, judge of the superior court for Cumberland county and one of the best known of the jurists of Maine, died Saturday night at his summer home in Denmark, Me.

Judge Bonney was not well when the May term of his court opened, but he heard all the evidence in the rather numerous but not very important cases. His charges while brief were as clear as usual, and he seemed to grow better as the term progressed. After the last case had been heard and before he imposed sentence he had a fit, and while he made a quick recovery he could not go to his chambers at the city and county building.

At the time of his death Justice Wiswell of the supreme court directed Justice Peabody to impose sentence and adjourn the court.

The Moore Spinning Company's lawn party was postponed two weeks on account of the rain.

At St. John's church yesterday, Rev. Fr. Schindler called attention to the coming parish picnic to be held at Natick next Saturday, and hoped that all would attend. Rev. Fr. McNamee is on his vacation, and, as a result, but one mass was sung yesterday.

William Ballinger, the overseer in the spinning and carding departments in the mills of the Moore Spinning Co., has returned from a seven weeks' vacation, which he spent in Bradford, England. While in England, Mr. Ballinger visited many places of interest.

Supt. Hubert Heron of the Chelmsford Foundry and his family are spending their vacation at Fortune Rock, Bideford, Me.

The new electric lights have been placed in Main street, and are a great improvement over the old-fashioned kerosene lamp. The street is now well lighted.

Mr. John Garvey, a well known moulder at the Chelmsford Foundry, has recovered from his recent illness.

It is expected that the water company moulder will soon begin to receive the pipe, which will be used for the new water supply.

A large stand pipe will have to be erected near where the wells are driven in Crystal lake, and the water will be pumped into the large stand pipe, so that it can be forced through all parts of the village. It is stated that by Nov. 1, of this year, the water will be all laid, and the water service will be that time be ready for use.

THE LOWELL SUN

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, PROPRIETOR.

Member of the Associated Press.

Three Dollars per Year. Twenty-five Cents per Month

The Sun receives the full day service of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, the greatest news-gathering organization in the world. The entire service received over a leased wire, by our own operator, in our own office in The Sun building.

SWORN CIRCULATION OF THE SUN

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1905 was

14,829

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Piotti, pressman of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1906.

JOHN J. HOGAN, Notary Public.

This is a larger circulation than the combined circulation of all the other daily papers in Lowell.

An advertisement placed in The Sun is of more value to the advertiser than if it were inserted in all the other newspapers in Lowell, and the cost of inserting it in The Sun is about ONE-THIRD the price charged by the other papers.

Sunday at the crowded beaches is not much of a relief to those who want to cool off.

There are special reasons why everybody should endeavor to keep cool this weather.

In this hot weather when there is such a rush of travel on trolley lines, it requires the greatest vigilance to prevent accidents. The collision at Worcester yesterday is a reminder.

THE ITALIAN STEAMER'S DISASTER.

That was a terrible disaster to the Italian emigrant steamer, in which 300 were drowned. The captain of a trawler, which came to the rescue, deserves everlasting honor for his heroic work. After taking in 300 persons, his crew became afraid that the craft would sink, but the captain, with drawn revolver, ordered his men to continue, saying: "As long as it is possible to take off another passenger, we will not move." Noble sea dog!

LOW WAGES AND HIGH COST OF LIVING.

The most partisan republican newspapers of which the Globe-Democrat is a shining example, are soiling with avidity the fact that the cotton mills of New England have raised the wages of their employees 5 to 15 per cent. Of course the 15 per cent. increase is for the officers of the cotton mills and the 5 per cent. for the workmen and working women. As an indication of how little wages the cotton operatives are paid, the June issue of the Massachusetts Labor Bulletin contains the results of a personal inquiry concerning what is called the distribution of wealth. That inquiry was extended to include certain classes of women workers embracing for the most part, the better paid occupations. As many of the cotton weavers are women, what they are paid will show the necessity for an increase of wages, especially as the cost of living has increased 45 per cent. The report of the above mentioned inquiry shows that women weavers were paid $10 a year, or $1.35 a day and these are the highest paid operatives except a few men who manage and care for the machinery. Some of the employees are paid as little as 50 cents a day. Five or even ten per cent. increase will hardly leave these workers anything after paying their bills, in these times of high prices and trust prosperity. The republicans will have to exhibit a better showing than this to stop the revolt of the working people against the republican party.

AS TO LAND FOR PUBLIC PARKS.

Two men stood on the border of Fort Hill park discussing its beauties and one expressed regret that more land had not been purchased by the city.

"All the land on this side of Rogers street from Perry street to Hoyt avenue could have been purchased by the city at less than was afterwards paid for a small portion of it and now the park is too small. The time will come," said one, "it may not be in our day but it will come when every house built upon the land adjoining the park will be cleared away and the whole tract laid out as a public park. The price that will then be paid will probably be ten or twenty times what would have been asked for the land when Rogers Hill was first donated to the city of Lowell."

"Why," said one of the men, "had the city purchased all this land in the first place while the price was low. It could have cleared its outlay by selling a small portion of it since that time. But instead of having land to sell it will have to buy and will have to pay a high price for what it could have had at a very low price had it shown the proper foresight."

Now in these simple remarks by a couple of business men, there is food for thought by the park commission and the people in general. There is also an argument in favor of what The Sun has advocated again and again, viz: that the city should go into the suburbs or even outside the city lines and preempt land to be used for park purposes as needed by the city in the future. The fine woods, the shady groves and the stately trees of the unbroken land in the suburbs are all being cleared away to give place to buildings and streets or in order to make the land suitable for investment.

The city in such cases is losing opportunities as it did when it failed to buy all the available land bordering on Fort Hill park. The policy of delay, of attending only to present needs and of keeping within a certain appropriation prevents such far-reaching economy and hence our park board lives, as it were, from hand to mouth, while some of the finest groves and woods are being filled in the onward march of commercialism.

When will the people look far enough ahead to realize what good things they might have at a low price if they only showed the right kind of enterprise in preserving for the benefits of the people the most suitable tracts of wooded land in the suburbs to be laid out in due time as public parks? Where there is so much land undeveloped even here in Massachusetts, why should the people be crowded into narrow streets and unsanitary surroundings?

The trolley car has aided immensely in keeping the toilers in touch with Nature, but the city must not depend too much on the summer resorts that attract thousands. There should be the quiet public resort, easy of access, to the mothers and children who cannot afford to take the cars, but yet who need the fresh air and the sight of the trees and the green fields even more than most of those who toil in the factories and workshops. This is a great question that pertains to the health, the happiness and the moral well being of the masses in every large city.

We want to catch a little of the breezy spirit of the west where streets are wide, where houses are surrounded by spacious grounds and where parks are laid out on a grand scale. There is now no excuse for having city streets crowded together as if land were scarce or of immense value. That is the result of private greed and it should be prevented where so much is to be had by moving outward.

No longer is it true that a great city is a great solitude, at least so far as the United States is concerned for provision is being made for public recreation in parks and public domains where the masses are brought into communion with Nature and lured away from the haunts of sin to renew their minds on the beauties of sylvan glades, the grandeur of mountain, sea and river and even the ceaseless energies of the mighty ocean.

No, we cannot have too many public parks and while we do not countenance extravagance, we believe that the park board that spends most money for acquiring new park lands will probably render the most lasting service to posterity.
